Political Science 218J/318J
Japanese Politics and International Relations
Spring, 2012-2013

Course Description

Advanced undergraduate / graduate seminar examining the domestic politics, political economy, and international relations of contemporary Japan. The role of political parties, the bureaucracy, and private actors. Economic development and challenges. Relations with the United States and East Asia. Undergraduate students should enroll in 218J. Graduate students should enroll in 318J.

Course Requirements

In-Class Participation (35%): You should come to class prepared to actively discuss the readings for the session.

Online Participation (15%): Each student is required to make one original post and one reply to the online bulletin board on the coursework website. The original post should demonstrate clear engagement with the readings for the week. The original post is due at 5 p.m. the day before class. The reply is due before the beginning of class and should preferably be posted by Monday night so others have a chance to review the postings before class.

Final Paper (50%): A 20 page research paper (4000-6000 words) related to the class material (Due: June 10).

General Policies

Active participation in class discussions is required – absences must be cleared prior to the session with the instructors. Unexcused absences will result in a half letter grade reduction in the student's final grade (e.g., A → A-, etc.). Late assignments will be penalized by half a letter grade each day the assignment is late.

Prerequisites

There are no formal prerequisites, though prior coursework in political science is advised.

Readings

Readings will be made available on Coursework.
